12th November 1941.

Dear Mr. Peel,

I write to state that the marginally noted concerns under my control are big and employ a large labour force. Both the factories are regularly executing a number of orders from the Supply Department (both Supply and Munitions Production Directorates). These orders are of considerable magnitude both in quantity and value. Apart from this, their production represents key industries and some of the products supplied cannot be easily obtained elsewhere in India.

The Government Electric Factory.
The Government Porcelain Factory.

The Government Electric Factory is specially important as being the second factory (and perhaps the biggest) in India for the manufacture of electrical transformers and both the Government of India and the Government of Mysore, besides other public electricity supply corporations, have filled orders at this factory for their requirements. Any dislocation of production in this respect will affect seriously essenyial interests. Similarly the electrical kiln, which is shortly coming into operation at the Government Porcelain Factory, is a unique equipment in India and the supply of suspension insulators and insulators for the telegraph and telephone services has to be kept up from this factory.

In view of these considerations I feel that these two factories should also be regarded as requiring special protection and included under the protected area scheme and needful arrangements made in this respect. I request you to kindly take needful action in the matter and advise me.

Yours sincerely,

Sd/- E.V. Ganapati Iyer.

My dear Kesavaiyengar

I enclose a copy of Mr. Ganapathi Iyer's D.O. letter No.5671 dated 12-11-1941 in which he recommends that the Government Electrical and Porcelain factories at Bangalore should be declared to be "protected places".

I have since made a thorough survey of these two factories with the Director and I agree with him that such a declaration is advisable and that some measure of Police protection is necessary.

I am therefore submitting separate proposals for the entertainment of temporary additional Armed Police, consisting of two Naiks and eight Constables, in order to provide a guard of one Naik and four Constables for each factory.

Yours sincerely
